WASHINGTON CITY.

Congress Adjourned over until Friday.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Both houses of Congress have adjourned over until Friday next. The committees of the House held a meeting to-day. All legislative business is entirely suspended and the capitol is pretty generally deserted for the Centennial.

Dom Pedro.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Dom Pedro visited the treasury department to-day.

The World's Washington dispatch says: Dom Pedro made a brief visit during the morning before the House met, and was officially taken in charge by the doorkeeper, Fitzhugh, before Cox could extend him a welcome. Subsequently the Speaker pro tem was introduced to him in his room and extended the courtesies of the floor of the House which the Emperor declined with thanks.

On his return from the White House the Emperor proceeded to the diplomatic gallery of the Senate chamber (again declining an invitation to the floor) accompanied by the Brazilian minister and his attaches. He seemed particularly anxious to see Belknap and studied the appearance of Cox and the War Minister for some moments, but spent most of his time listening to Judge Black's argument. Occasionally he would turn to the Brazilian minister who sat beside him and that gentleman pointed out the various Presidential candidates present and the prominent Senators. He appeared to observe with unusual interest Bayard, Morton and Conkling.

Owing to the bad weather Dom Pedro did not go to Mount Vernon this morning as intended. He left this afternoon for Philadelphia.

[illegible] Grant and Family Gone to Philadelphia.

The President, Mrs. Grant and Ulysses Jr. left here this morning for Philadelphia to attend the opening of the Centennial exposition.

Miss Sweet's Testimony.

The Times Washington dispatch says: Miss Sweet's testimony before the committee on civil service, in regard to the pension agency at Chicago shows a worse state of affairs than ever suspected. The testimony shows that she was robbed of $5,000 by the action of two men now holding responsible offices, and a third who was her predecessor, named David Blakely. The latter owed $5,000 to Campbell the U. S. marshal of Chicago. Campbell wanted Blakely retained until worked out of debt. When Miss Sweet was proposed it was arranged that she might have the office if she would assume Blakely's debt. This she did without consulting her friends. She paid $2,900 and then discovered that Blakely was a defaulter and as she had assumed the debt she herself was shown to be a defaulter by her own books. Blakely afterwards came to and told her she was a defaulter to the extent of $4,000 and also told her that she must raise the money that day. She was not able to raise but $2,000. He then placed in her hands certain notes, endorsed by Senator Windom and ex-Senator Ramsey, to the amount of $2,000. These notes appear to have been given by Blakely and endorsed by these gentlemen with another party named Shaeffer. Miss Sweet got the notes discounted and raised the balance of the money and it was paid over when the notes became due. They had to be renewed twice and finally Shaeffer paid the notes without any interest. Gen Baker well knew the situation in which Blakely had placed Miss Sweet, and understood that in his demand upon her he was saving the former agent. Baker now surveyor general of Minnesota. Campbell is very anxious to have Miss Sweet make her story before the committee brief and seems to have made several efforts before she left Chicago to get the matter suppressed. He finally authorized her to say to the committee that if they thought he did wrong in receiving money he would refund at once. Some of the Illinois politicians think the President entirely willing to remove Campbell and will probably do so as soon as the investigation comes to an end. Miss Sweet is a daughter of Gen Sweet, who was deputy commissioner of internal revenue, and who performed distinguished services. She was given the position of pension agent on account of her father's services and the circumstances in which the affairs of the family were left by his death, but the result of the good intentions of the government in her behalf has been a loss through her holding the office of about $2,000. When an effort was made some time ago to have her dismissed from office she told some parts at least, of her story to the President, who told her she must pay no more money to any one and that if she did it would be considered a cause for removal. Thus armed, she had no longer to submit to the black mailing ring, but up to the present time Baker and Campbell have not been punished by dismissal.

Speaker Kerr.

Kerr's friends declare he has not resigned and will not. He will probably ask for an extension of leave. Kerr telegraphed Morrison this evening that there is no truth in the statement that he had resigned or contemplated doing so. Kerr is simply overworked and suffers from bronchitis. He is by no means dangerously ill. He has been advised to leave Indiana, the climate disagreeing with him.

Sudden Death.

Major Alexander A. Macomb died in his chair at the Union Club last evening by the bursting of the aorta. He was the son of Major General Macomb and married Gen Phil Kearney's sister.

The Weather.

The weather for two days past has been unusually warm, with glorious showers. The weather jumped from winter to summer. Thermometer 8[illegible] to 8[illegible]—warmer than at Havana or Florida. Philadelphia, Washington and the Middle and Atlantic States show the same result.

Whitewashing Job.

The Sun's Washington special declares there is a concerted effort to whitewash D. Nicols. Witnesses who have given important evidence have been called lunatics, soreheads and inebriates. The Sun gives extracts from several witnesses' testimony to show that the insane asylum is grossly mismanaged.

The Hawaiian Treaty.

The Tribune's editorial says the passage of the Hawaiian treaty bill in the House on yesterday was a surprise to its opponents. Its passage was made possible by the absence of many members most interested. The question about the treaty is whether our own people or a few planters in the Sandwich Islands will profit most by its provisions, and on that point there is room for wide difference of opinion.

Belknap Indicted for Receiving Bribes.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The grand jury of the Criminal Court of the District of Columbia to-day found a true bill of indictment against Belknap for receiving bribes.

False [illegible] Regarding Secretary Bristow.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—A statement has been published to the effect that Bristow suspended proceedings against James Buckner, who was collector of internal revenue at Louisville and a defaulter to the extent of $100,000, because Miles Foster, father of Mrs. Bristow, who died recently, leaving Mrs. Bristow a handsome legacy, is on the bond of the defaulter. Upon this subject the treasury records show that James F. Buckner had been for several years past collector of internal revenue for the 5th district Kentucky. He is not a defaulter for $100,000 nor any other sum, but during last summer his then cashier Jackson robbed him of $6[illegible],300 government money. Jackson subsequently committed suicide. The loss was discovered by Bristow before it was known at Louisville. All of Buckner's bonds are on file in the treasury here and an examination of them shows that the late Mr. Miles was never on any of them. The loss is abundantly secured to the government by the collector's bonds of $150,000 and sureties which are worth more than $1,000,000. Buckner has now a petition for relief before the House of Representatives endorsed by citizens of Kentucky without regard to party.

THE CENTENNIAL.

PHILADELPHIA, May 10.—The city presented a remarkable appearance to-day. Chestnut street and all the main thoroughfares were decorated with bunting, and Independence Hall fitted up with a number of transparencies, calcium lights, &c. Great progress has been made in clearing the exhibition buildings of rubbish. Trains of cars loaded with empty boxes, old lumber, etc., have been going out of the grounds all day. The main passage ways of the principal buildings are now in a respectable shape for pedestrians. There remains however much carpentering to be done in the foreign departments. Of the great exhibition buildings that of the government is in the finest order and most advanced state of preparation and nothing is to be done but to clear away the debris.

The invitations to participate in the opening ceremonies to-morrow number from 3,000 to 4,000; these include Kings, Queens, Emperors and Presidents of foreign countries, foreign ministers, consuls, judges of the supreme court, congressmen, etc., with their wives.

Capt. Warner of the 4th U. S. regular artillery arrived to-day with his command. This command will perform sentry duty in and around the government buildings.

The Krupp cannon from Germany will not be placed on exhibition for a week owing to the difficulty of removing it from the vessel.

The Empress of Brazil has been requested and consented to start the machinery in the ladies' pavilion on the opening day. The Boston [illegible], Capt. Emory, numbering [illegible], arrived this afternoon. They will during the three days of their stay do guard duty for Massachusetts. The government work of preparation on the grand inaugural platform was finished this evening and everything is ready for the ceremonies. Most of hotels in vicinity of the grounds are crowded to-night. President Grant and wife, Secretary and Mrs. Robeson, Taft, Chandler, Jewell and their wives, and Dom Pedro and members of his suite, [illegible] prominent Congressmen, army and naval officers and others arrived this afternoon.

A Chicago boy who has been sitting up nights reading pirate stories called his father to supper the other day by bawling out "What ho, there, base craven! Come hither to thy vesperian hash." And when that father and that son came together it sounded as if the belt had slipped off a twenty foot flywheel.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Outrage at Salonica.

PARIS, May 9.—From details of the outrage at Salonica received here it appears that the United States consul interfered for the protection of a Greek girl who was the innocent cause of disturbance and conducted her to the consulate in a carriage. An excited mob thereupon surrounded the consulate and the French and German consuls, who were brothers-in-law and both related by marriage to the American consul, believing him to be in danger proceeded to his assistance and on the way thither were attacked. The Italian consul informed the Governor of the state of affairs and he sent troops to the relief of the American consulate which was besieged by the rabble.

A special from Berlin says Germany has accepted the Porte's offer to give satisfaction for the Salonica outrage provided the promises be carried into effect immediately.

PARIS, May 9.—A dispatch says the reports of the outrage at Salonica received represent that the French and German consuls were dragged from the streets into the mosque and there stabbed. The Governor arrived at the mosque after the murders had been completed.

The Porte's Version of the Salonican Outrage.

LONDON, May 9.—The Porte sent by telegraph the following account of the disturbance in Salonica to the Ottoman Ambassador at London: The convert to Mahommedanism arrived at Salonica by railway. The Mahommedans proceeded to escort her, according to custom, to the residence of the governor general when about 1[illegible]0 persons, whom the Consul of the United States had assembled, rushed at the convert, tore off her veil and mantle and carried her by force to the house of a Christian. Excited Mussulmans went to the governor and insisted that the convert should be brought thither. The governor hearing that the German and French consuls had entered the Mosque which was invaded by the crowd went there to induce the consuls to withdraw, and to calm the people. All his efforts were useless; the populace wrenched the bars from the grating, fell upon the consuls and struck them down in spite of the desperate efforts of the governor to shield them with his own person. The troops ultimately dispersed the people. The governor of Salonica telegraphs that order has been restored and that the guilty parties have been arrested.

The Christian Account.

PARIS, May 10.—A correspondent of the Univers says the foreign governments have forwarded the following account of the origin of the disturbance at Salonica to their legations in Paris: The American consul was at the railway station when his attention was attracted by the cries of a Christian girl. She was surrounded by a score of Mussulmans who wanted to take her forcibly to the Mosque. The consul took the girl under his protection. While he was seeking for information as to her nationality, the German and French consuls were separately informed that the woman belonged to their respective nations and had been dragged into a Mosque. They consequently repaired to the Mosque where they were beaten to death.

A Paris correspondent learns that the American consul fearing that the mob would succeed in forcing his house sent the girl to the German consul. The mob in the Mosque compelled the German consul to sign an order for her delivery and then murdered him.

The Salonica Affair.

LONDON, May 9.—A correspondent at Berlin says it is generally thought here that the Salonica affair will prove fatal to Turkey. Interference of European powers for the benefit of Christians is now considered unavoidable as it is evident the Porte is powerless to protect them against the outbreaks of fanatics.

German War Ships for Salonica.

A telegram from Berlin states that the German corvette Medusa, has been ordered to leave Messina for Salonica without delay. Russian and Austrian men of war have also been ordered to Salonica in consequence of an urgent dispatch from the Chancellor of the French Consulate at Salonica. Additional French men-of-war have gone to Syria, where they await insurrections. The British consul ordered a man of war from Piræus to come to Salonica immediately.

Serious Bulgarian Insurrection.

A special dispatch from Athens reports the Bulgarian insurrection near Philippoli threatens to become serious. The Porte is greatly alarmed and is sending forward all its disposable forces by day and night trains on the Adrianople Railway. The movement has been long preconcerted by Servian agitators. At first it was considered unimportant, but it spread rapidly and the number of the insurgents is variously estimated at from 3,000 to 10,000. The Porte informed the foreign ambassadors that it has resolved to raise the duties on imports 20 per cent.

LONDON, May 9.—A dispatch from Constantinople asserts that the Bulgarian rioters fled to the mountains and cordons of troops have been established to prevent the movement from spreading. Advices received at Paris however represent that postal and telegraphic communication between Constantinople and Sofia has been interrupted by the insurrection.

Turkish Conference Proposal.

A Vienna dispatch reports that the Turkish Ambassador at Berlin has been instructed to consent to a mixed conference commission of the superintendency of Bosnia.

Conference of Three Great Statesmen.

The approaching conference between Prince Gortschakoff, Count Andrassy and Prince Bismarck will be held at the latter's official residence.

VIENNA, May 9.—Count Andrassy left for Berlin.

Reorganization of Austria's Cavalry Ordered.

A dispatch from Berlin says the reorganization of the Austrian cavalry has been ordered whereby the force is raised to [illegible],000, exclusive of the Landwehr.

Strath-Clyde Shipwreck.

LONDON, May [illegible].—The owners of the steamer Strathclyde, which was sunk in the English channel by the steamer Franconia, have gained their suit for damages against the latter. The damages were laid by the plaintiffs at £4[illegible],000.

French War Ships Gone to Salonica.

PARIS, May 10.—Le Fait announces that several French iron clad frigates and a dispatch vessel have sailed for Salonica.

Fast Walking—O'Leary's Time Beaten.

LONDON, May 9.—An English pedestrian named Vaughn has succeeded in walking one hundred miles in 18 hours 51 minutes and 20 seconds, thus beating O'Leary's best time by two minutes and five seconds.

Aggressors on Neutral Territory Punished.

The Sultan of Morocco has punished the parties who committed the aggression on neutral territory in Africa.

Mutiny and Murder.

The British consul at Rio Janeiro reports by telegraph that a mutiny broke out on the bark [illegible] of Swansea for Queenstown in latitude [illegible] south, longitude 31 west. All the officers were murdered by the mutineers.

House of Commons.

In the House of Commons last night the merchants shipping bill passed in committee.

Petition for the Release of Fenians.

The Standard to-day announces 99 members of the House of Commons signed a memorial to Disraeli asking for the release of Fenian convicts. Among the signers were Fawcett, Morley, Plimsoll, Mundell, Osborne Morgan and Jacob Bright.

Italian War Ship Ordered to Salonica.

ROME, May 9.—The minister of marine ordered an Italian man of war to go to Salonica immediately.

European Breadstuffs Markets.

LIVERPOOL, May 9.—Breadstuffs are steady. Wheat 9s 6d@[illegible] per cental for average California; [illegible] 2d for club do. The receipts of wheat the past three days amounted to 45,000 quarters of which 3[illegible],000 was American.

LONDON, May 9.—The Mark Lane Express says there has been no noticeable change in the aspect of the country. All vegetation making slow progress owing to prevalent cold wind. The season in Scotland is much behind hand. Adverse weather caused seeding to be unusually protracted. In trade increased activity has been apparent; millers buy more freely and speculators showing considerable interest in the present course of prices. Transactions for the continent at our local markets have been only of a tentative nature. Some small quantities of both English and foreign wheat have been taken for export. The export demand for oats having abated prices declined slightly; the supply of maize having been sufficient to check any advance. Continental advices except from France are fairly satisfactory as to the condition of crops, though want of sunshine has been felt there also. Navigation has not been resumed at Petersburg and the prices of wheat are very high both there and at Odessa.

Alexander Dumas wrote one of his wittiest verses at the expense of a successful quack who, having lavishly entertained him, presented [illegible] album for an autograph. [illegible] took his pen and wrote [illegible]:

[illegible] murmured the doctor, who was looking over the writer's shoulder. [illegible] concluded his epigram:

What men want is more grip. We are constantly getting hold of good things but our fingers slip and we lose them. The man who holds on for life holds fast. There is too much waiting for something to turn up and too little determination that I shall turn up. If a man should keep all the blessings that come to him even the poorest would be rich. We often let go the less to grasp the greater and lose both.—N. Y. Herald.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Colonial Legislature.

VICTORIA, May 9.—In the House yesterday, Premier Elliott announced that it was the intention of the government some time before the close of the session, and at as early a day as business will admit, to move the House into committee of the whole for the purpose of further considering the position of matters at issue between the Provisional and Dominion government in relation to the nonfulfillment of its railway obligations toward British Columbia.

A resolution to impose a tax of $25 per annum on every male person wearing a plaited tail or queue attached to his head was discussed in committee of the whole, but without reaching any decision. The question will be brought up again.

The bill providing for holding of elections in case of general election, on the same day in every district, except that of Kootenay, was read third time and passed.

It is reported that the present Lieut. Governor will not be reappointed here, but rumor gives the names of Sir A. T. Galt or J. D. Edgar as likely to succeed him.

The bark Lunalilo, 22 days from Yokohama to Cape Flattery, arrived here last night.

MENTAL PRECOCITY.

Christian Heinecken, born at Lubeck, February 6, 1721, was one of the most remarkable children to be found in the annals of precocity. At the age of ten months he could speak and repeat every word which was said to him; when twelve months old he knew by heart the principal events narrated in the Pentateuch. In his second year he learned the greater part of the history of the Bible, both Old and New Testaments. In his third year, he could reply to most questions on universal history and geography, and in the same year he learned to speak Latin and French. In his fourth year he employed himself in the study of religion and the history of the Church. He was able not only to repeat what he had read, but also to reason upon it, and express his own judgment. He died on the 27th of June, 1725, aged four years and four months.

It cannot be too generally known that extreme precocity is of the nature of disease and a subject for the gravest care. In a precocious child, the exercise of the intellect, whether in lessons or otherwise, should be discouraged and controlled, not, as it too often is, stimulated, if there be any sincere desire that the child should live.

Henry Kirke White, the Christian poet, when but eleven years old, wrote a separate theme for every boy in his class, which consisted of about twelve or fourteen. The master said he had never known them to write so well upon any subject before, and could not refrain from expressing his astonishment at the excellence of Henry's own.

Sir Isaac Newton had mastered the highest elements of mathematics and the analytical method of Des Cartes, before he was twenty, and discovered the new method of infinite series, the new telescope, the laws of gravitation and planetary system.

Edward Burke, at the age of nineteen, planned a refutation of the metaphysical theories of Berkely and Hume. At twenty he was in the Temple the admiration of its inmates for the brilliancy of his genius and the variety of his acquisitions.

Lafayette was a Major General in the American army at the age of eighteen, was but twenty when he was wounded at Brandywine, and twenty-two when he raised supplies for our army on his own credit at Baltimore.

William Cullen Bryant, the greatest of American poets, published his first verses at the age of fourteen and still lives to edit the New York Evening Post, although beyond the age of eighty.

Lord Byron at the age of twenty published his celebrated satire upon the English Bards and Scotch Reviewers and at twenty-four the first two cantos of Childe Harold's Pilgrimage.

John Milton at the age of twenty had written his finest miscellaneous poems, including L'Allegro, Il Penseroso, Comus and the most beautiful part of Monodos.

Alexander the Great became the most renowned monarch of his time, and conquered the known world before he had passed his thirty-second year.

THE CZAR OF RUSSIA.

THE RUMOR OF HIS INTENDED ABDICATION CONTRADICTED.

We take the following from a recent letter to the London Standard by its St. Petersburg correspondent: It is difficult to know what gave rise to the report of the Emperor's intention to withdraw for a while from the cares of government. It can only be surmised that it was the revival in another form of a rumor current at the end of last year. Some time after his return from the Crimea the Emperor was unwell, but his illness was of short duration and was by no means serious. A report, however, was spread that his Majesty had been advised by his physicians to leave St. Petersburg in January. The Emperor's recovery soon put a stop to these rumors and nothing more was heard upon the subject. Since his indisposition he has always been able to go through his usual occupations, to take his regular daily exercise, and he has even not been prevented from going bear shooting once a week, a recreation in which his Majesty has been in the habit of indulging for many years.

It is during the half year he passes in town that he works most assiduously, and while he is in St. Petersburg there are few men who devote more time and attention to business than he does. It is not surprising therefore that toward the spring he should feel fatigued, but he always derives considerable benefit from the cure he regularly undergoes at Ems. The plan of his journey published in the official Messenger, which I transmitted in my last letter, is not different from that of the last few years. His Majesty always leaves for his cure soon after Easter, returns for the summer exercises of the troops during June and July, and leaves again in the middle of August on a tour of inspection in the southern provinces, and then takes up his residence in the Crimea till the winter sets in. There is, therefore, nothing unusual in the plan, and not the slightest ground for supposing that the Emperor has adopted a resolution for which there is no reason whatever.

GEN. HOWARD AT LAPWAI.

FORT LAPWAI, I. T., May 3, 1876.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The season having opened so favorably, we were honored last Friday, the 28th ult., by a visit from Gen. O. O. Howard, department commander, accompanied by his aide-de-camp, Capt. M. C. Wilkinson, U. S. A. The General, who appears to be in excellent health, came, it is understood, on a tour of inspection, and will probably visit the post of Fort Colville before he returns to Portland. During the sojourn of the party at this post the troops composing the garrison were reviewed and inspected and did considerable credit to themselves and their immediate commanders, the infantry company (G 21st Inf.) however being so small (reduced to below half its allowance), did not appear to as much advantage as it might otherwise have done. On Sunday morning the General held divine service in the quarters of Co. G, 21st infantry, assisted by Capt. Wilkinson and the ladies of the garrison and those of the neighboring agency. In the evening another service was held at which General Howard gave some of his early experiences in the army, particularly in Florida, which were listened to with marked attention and interest. On the last evening of his stay Capt. Wilkinson addressed a large and attentive audience on the subject of "temperance," in which he displayed some of the evils of this pernicious habit, and pictured very warmly the blessings and material comforts that help to sustain the sober God-fearing man. He showed the soldiers pretty conclusively that it was their main drawback both in the army and out of it, and that their only safeguard when the tempter lured them was a firm and courteous use of the monosyllable no. Capt. Wilkinson's remarks were on the whole very natural, showing a sympathy and thorough acquaintance with the soldier's life, and withal so interspersed with humorous illustration and anecdote as to draw forth many a hearty laugh. The General then addressed the audience on the same subject, in which he too "held the mirror up to nature" and pointed out in forcible and impressive terms the contrast between the two sides of the picture. The General appears to be a thorough Christian gentleman and soldier, courteous and kind and warmhearted in his intercourse, everywhere striving earnestly and faithfully to follow the Master's footsteps, who went about doing good, and it is only to be regretted that his many important duties prevent his visiting the posts in his department more frequently. Would that there were more of his spirit animating the officers of the army, then there would be less dissatisfaction, less drunkenness, less crime. Some doubtless, will remember this visit with gratitude, but all with pleasure, and hope the General and his party will have a safe and comfortable journey homeward.

CASSID.

A MAD WITNESS AND A MADDER COMMITTEE.

The Democrats on the committee had caused all the Republicans to be notified that an important witness was to be examined, and that all should be present. No hint was given of the nature of the expected evidence, but the fact escaped from some of the less careful Democrats that the committee held President Grant in the hollow of their hand. The committee had been sitting with open doors, but a mysterious witness was produced, and the doors were barred for two hours. The witness upon whose lips the fate of the President of the United States hung was an ordinary looking business man. The Democratic members were on tiptoe with expectation. Republicans were interested but ignorant of the forthcoming result. The witness was almost indifferent. His marvelous story was this:

Some years ago a person in high station did him great injury. It became important to the peace of mind of that great personage that the witness should be harmless. He hired a detective, and soon hurried him to the government mad-house. He was kept there, friendless and powerless for months, when one day an agent of this great personage approached him, giving him the choice between life imprisonment with lunatics, or a life of exile in Europe. He chose the latter. Detectives accompanied him to the steamer, and he left for Europe. Becoming weary of Europe he returned and appeared before the committee to-day to tell his story. The committee [illegible] paralyzed—in part with astonishment, in part with diabolical joy. "Who was that great personage that wronged you," asked the chairman. "The President of the United States," was the reply. "What wrong did he do you?"

There the witness paused. He would die before he would tell. It was a delicate subject and should not be mentioned. For an hour the committee plied him with questions. They threatened him with imprisonment, with severe punishment, with the terrors of contumacy. The witness yielded. He said the President of the United States had done him mortal wrong, that he had ruined his (the witness') betrothed, and since that time the witness had been a proscribed and persecuted man. Hence these detectives, hence these mad-house bars.

The President had frequently come to the house of the witness about it at the dead of night and had importuned him at his bedside not to ruin his great fame.

"But," interposed a Republican member, "how did the President get to your bedside at that time of night; did he ring the bell?"

The climax had come. Democrats were enthusiastic in their sardonic joy, and were just ready to render their verdict against the President, when the witness quickly interposed:

"I want you to understand, gentlemen, that President Grant in the body never did me or mine harm. He has only done me that great wrong as a spirit."

The collapse came. The witness was a madman. The committee instantly discharged him, immediately ordered the stenographer to suppress his notes, and begged the Republican members to keep the matter silent. One of the latter with a good deal of indignation, said that he hoped he might be as mad as the witness if he kept still.—N. Y. Tribune.

CAGES FOR PARLIAMENT'S GUESTS.—There was a curious discussion in the House of Commons the other night as to whether the grating, which at present incloses the ladies who visit the House of Commons as in a cage, should be removed. In the upper house the ladies sit exposed, but it was suggested that in the Commons it would disturb the members to see them, and that the happy neglect of dress which now distinguishes that assembly would be given up and evening dress become the rule. No decision was come to and the ladies will therefore be caged as before. If not seen, they are certainly heard and the chirping and buzzing are often very trying to the reporters who sit immediately below. It is said that the ladies are themselves in favor of the present plan as it promises flirting.—Cor. N. Y. Times.

THE TERRITORIES.

It is said the miners on the Palouse are taking out $4 to $5 a day to the man.

Adolphus Bush pleaded guilty to a charge of horse stealing at Walla Walla last week. The Spirit says he is young in years, but old in crime.

Samuel Jacobs has completed the assessment of Walla Walla city. He reports the total valuation at $9[illegible]0,290, of which $505,985 is personal property, and $454,305 the value of real estate.

The Santa Rita placer mines of Arizona are yielding well. Sixty ounces were brought in on the 8th ult., three ounces being in one nugget. Living is about as cheap at the placers as in Tucson. Cooking for himself and furnishing his own food, a man can live on $30 a month.

The Grange Council of Walla Walla have ordered their secretary to cause 500 posters to be printed and distributed in the country east of the Cascades inviting teamsters to come and go to work on the Wallula road, with the assurance of plenty to do for a year at five dollars per ton.

A letter from Stevens county, W. T., dated May 1st, says: "There is still considerable snow in the mountains, nearly or quite as much as there was four weeks ago. We are having a great deal of rain. Grass is excellent; nearly all the grain is sown, and much more than ever before. There are quite a number of persons looking around for [illegible], and some of them talk as though they were well pleased with the country, and the only fault found is the lack of market. A [illegible] if we had a railroad we would have one of the richest counties in the Territory."

A Los Angeles paper says that Isaac G. Cabanis, a notary public in that city, has been granted a pension. He will be remembered as Lieut. [illegible] of the Washington Territory Infantry, who was stationed at Fort Walla Walla in 1862-'63-'64. He acted as quartermaster of that post until he was thrown from his buggy one night while returning to the garrison from town with Dr. Steinberger. Mr. Cabanis was thrown upon his [illegible], producing a concussion of the brain, and for a long time his life was despaired of.

The auditor reports the financial condition of Walla Walla county as follows: Total amount tax levied for 1875, $48,719 07; collected, $39,682 53; delinquent, $9,036 54; amount received from other sources, $4,709 40; cash on hand May 1, 1875, $4,170 45; amount paid out for various purposes $46,778 88, including $9,300 00 to the Territory. On hand May 1, 1876, $5,271 61, to-wit: Territorial fund, $1,423 83; county, $652 78; school, $2,470 34; road, $724 66. Amount outstanding orders May 1, 1875, $8,980 41; warrants issued during the fiscal year 1876, $15,443 40; amount of orders paid by the treasurer during the year: county, $20,024 10; road, $683 06; county orders outstanding May 1, 1876, $2,810 56.

Serious trouble is anticipated in Southwestern Colorado, consequent upon the Southern Utes, of whom Ignacio is chief, having ordered all the settlers to abandon their [illegible] and leave the lower Animas valley. A petition from the citizens of La Plata county has been forwarded to the general government at Washington, asking protection against expected attacks of the Indians. The cause of [illegible] on the part of the Utes is, that although they made a treaty with the United States three years ago, agreeing to give up the San Juan mining regions in consideration of certain annual payments, none of them have been received, though the Utes have faithfully fulfilled all their treaty obligations. [illegible], who is apparently a shrewd and [illegible] savage, says that if the Utes had been bad Indians like the Sioux, the government would have given them blankets and presents, but as they are good Indians they can get nothing but promises, therefore, they propose to kick up a row and see if the government will not fetch on its blankets.

CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION.

WHO SHALL TAKE THE PALM?

It is hard to tell what nation will make the best show until the Exhibition has begun. Egypt to-day displays her antiquities of the Pharaohs, her wonderful collections from among the savage tribes of interior Soudan, and her artistic furniture of rare wood, inlaid with ebony, ivory and silver, executed in the ancient Arabic style, and people think that nothing in the Main Building will excel that. But to-morrow, little Holland sets up strong and perfect models of her far-famed dykes, and of all the noted public works within her territory, displays great squares of carpet rivaling that of Brussels in quality, and erects the prettiest Commissioner office in the Main building. Brazil puts up a dazzling $30,000 pavilion, suggesting the Alhambra style of architecture. The United States, represented by a New York firm, makes the grandest display of granite-work, in the shape of half a dozen immense sarcophagi, one of them surmounted by a female statue, finely chiseled out of a solid mass of granite. Chili builds the most picturesque pagoda, and Spain the most imposing and tasteful pavilion. China and Japan contend with each other in striving to present the best specimen of bamboo architecture, and to paint on their commissioners' office, of the [illegible] style, the ugliest old grannies with bald pates, expressionless almond eyes and queues that [illegible] a cabbie John sighs for as he looks at his worn-out whip.

THE [illegible] IN OTHER QUARTERS.

England carries off the palm in [illegible], Germany in show-cases, toys and fancy articles, France stands alone in the [illegible] of wines, fine groceries and notions in the clothing line, Sweden defies competition in exhibiting the perfection attainable by the [illegible] art, and Belgium takes pride in the representation, in carved wood, of Scriptural and other religious subjects, one of its cabinets having a series of niches extending around it and containing groups of wooden statuary representing the marriage of Joseph and Mary, the Annunciation, Mary's visit to her cousin, St. Elizabeth, the Flight into Egypt, etc. But the latest curiosity in the way of an essay to so arrange commonplace articles as to divert the eye from more pretentious material to themselves, is to be found in the Norwegian section, one instance being sufficient to convey an idea of what is to be seen there. An iron firm, instead of heaping up their plows and bars of wrought iron in an unattractive pile, have constructed of it a complete model of a Norwegian fishing boat, even the ratlines are of wrought iron, the metal composing the cross lines or foot holds being knotted as neatly as though the latter were made of hemp. In the display of iron manufactures both Norway and Sweden will stand perhaps unequaled. The section of the former is enlivened by well-executed paintings of picturesque scenery in that romantic country. Among these are representations of Christiania, Oskarshal and Bergen.—Philadelphia Times.

The Celtic laborer who looked upon himself as oppressed by the necessity of giving ten hours' work with spade and pick for $2 a day, and who showed a preference for the "clane business" of a bishop with a large salary, only expressed the general ambition to do little and get heavily paid for it. We are apt to forget that whatever position we are eminently fitted for we gravitate toward. "Why," said Woodsworth, "I could write like Milton easily enough if I had a mind to." "Yes," remarked Lamb, "so you could; but what you lack is very important—that is, the mind to." Make yourself able and the world will sooner or later want you. "The pit is crowded," said Choate to an assembly of young lawyers, "but there's plenty of room on the stage." Instead of grumbling because you are obscure make yourself worthy of prominence and you will by and by, be invited to come up higher.—N. Y. Herald.

WEDNESDAY MORNING MAY 10, 1876

THE CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION

This is the opening day of the great American Centennial Exhibition the second international exhibition held on this continent The President the Cabinet both Houses of Congress crowds of foreigners including one great monarch and throngs of our own citizens have betaken themselves to the City of Brotherly Love to assist at the imposing ceremonies with which the great show will be thrown open to the wonder and admiration of the multitudes there present and to come. By the time this paper reaches our readers the Centennial grounds will be packed with people gathered from every quarter of the globe eager to get the first look at the accumulated treasures of the world. Every nation on earth has sent something of its best—works of art and luxury the more modest but not less valuable contrivances for economizing time and multiplying productive force and samples of the natural products of the soil. The visitor will see not only the productions of his own and other countries, but will also be shown the raw materials and, if he is curious, will be afforded an opportunity for learning the process by which they may be transmuted into innumerable shapes and substances for service as articles of use or ornament. In seeing everything on exhibition the progress of the world for more than the past century will be seen side by side with the latest improved machinery from the great Corliss engine which gives life and movement to the whole, to the simplest mechanical device in the building, will stand the rude and awkward contrivances with which our ancestors were obliged to be content. The works of art and ornaments exhibited by other countries will probably surpass those exhibited by us, but in the exhibition of useful manufactures and of natural products we will equal, if not excel them If we have no paintings to show equal to those sent by Europeans, no statuary, no exquisitely carved gems, no marvelously delicate lace, we can point with satisfaction to our printing machines our mowers and reapers, our telegraphs, our sewing machines, our steam engines, our process for reducing ores, our cars and locomotives, our pianos, and in fact to every article of practical and productive use, with a comfortable assurance that in solidity of make and aptness for the work required of them they cannot be surpassed

There have already been four great international exhibitions of which the one at London in 1851 was the first, that at New York in 1853, the second, that at Paris in 1867, the third, and that at Vienna in 1873, the fourth. During this time, however, there have been twelve or more others, including one in New Zealand, the chief of which were That at Munich in 1854, Paris in 1855, Florence in 1861, the second London in 1862, Amsterdam in 1864.

The first exhibition, in 1851, in London, was the greatest success financially, as after paying all expenses and providing a perpetual museum for the British people the net profits amounted to nearly $900,000 The least successful, financially, was that at Vienna, which ran in debt several millions. The most beautiful building was that known as the London Crystal Palace, built by Sir Joseph Paxton, who at the time he offered his plan was in the service of the Duke of Devonshire, and who modeled the building from the Duke's palm house. The ugliest building was that erected by the French in 1867, but at the same time it was the most conveniently arranged

Our centennial is the fifth great international exhibition How it will succeed remains to be seen, but it has, at least, started well, as the cost of erection will fall within the estimates—a most unusual thing, one which evidences very strongly the excellent ability of the executive committee, and gives assurance that the affairs of the exhibition will be properly managed and brought to a successful issue

Aside from the influence which the reimposition of the duty on tea and coffee would have on the Presidential election next fall, and which neither party in Congress would care to confront there can be no doubt that it commends itself to all thoughtful and practical men If additional revenue be really needed there is no means by which it can be so easily and economically secured as by a moderate tax on tea and coffee. However, it has gone by the board, for the present, of course out of tender regard for the interests of the poor workingmen and their wives and families, and not with any reference to the fall election or the workingmen's votes"

DEMOCRATIC MEETING AT HILLSBORO

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

In accordance to previous arrangements the Democracy, to the number of eighteen or twenty, met at the court house in Hillsboro last Saturday, and were called to order by the chairman, Mr J A Richardson, who, after stating the object of the meeting on motion, appointed Dr Bailey, John Swick and R. Walker a committee on order of business.

The report recommended first, the consideration of the propriety of putting out a county ticket - second, action on the State and judicial ticket, report adopted.

A motion was then made to proceed with the nomination of a county ticket The motion was opposed by Bailey, Swick and Wills, on the ground that some Republican (so called) had urged them to do so They were opposed to doing anything the Republicans wanted them to do, therefore they were opposed to putting out a ticket they were opposed to the endorsement of the Republican ticket and were opposed to openly or officially endorsing the Independents that they held the balance of power and would elect whom they pleased The motion was lost

On motion, the convention indorsed Lafayette Lane for Congress, the State platform, and Mr Strong for district attorney

On motion, Mr Strong, candidate for prosecuting attorney, was invited to address the convention Mr, Strong said he would not discuss anything relating to his opponent as he was not present that he had sins of his own to answer for that he would give him a chance to defend himself as they intended to canvass the district together He spoke of the sobriety of the Salem convention and their (consequent) good behavior of the Democratic guardianship over the school fund the Chinese question of the Republican convention and the gloom and disaffection of the Republican party The Belknap and Grant howl was then gone through with by Mr Strong, with a good deal of tragical ability He was applauded by the stamping of feet Mr S did not have time to speak of the delinquencies of the Democrats both in this State and the United States.

DR. BAILEY

Then took the floor and expressed his undying love for his country in this Centennial year, the disgrace of the nation by Grant and Belknapism he claimed for the Democracy the glory of unearthing the frauds, and with this exception his speech was old matter published and criticised in the OREGONIAN and taken from that paper, It is not worth while to rewrite it The doctor is an able man and makes a good 4th of July speech But he also forgot to say anything about the misdoings of the Democrats.

J. A. RICHARDSON

Was then called upon This gentleman's delivery is so similar to the delivery of the tail of a ten horse separator [illegible] under full headway, I could not tell what he did say but amid the roaring windy, bubbling spluttering bedlam confusion I could catch occasionally the words Belknap and Grant and therefore concluded that he was trying to make a Democratic speech I have since been informed that at a Democratic caucus Mr Richardson was chosen as the Democratic nominee for the Independent party's Senator vice Dr Bowlby resigned

A GOOD WASHING MACHINE.

COMPLETE WASHER.

WITH GREAT SATISFACTION WE TESTIFY to the wonderful qualities of the COMPLETE WASHING Machine, which is in use by many of the best families in our city, because it makes the wash day one of pleasure, and causes no wear on clothing or tire to operator It is by excessive and exhaustive labor by the women of our land, who are toiling all day long on an ordinary family washing in the hot suds, wearing away their knuckle bones and very lives every week in the year and going out from the seething tub to the cold air which causes our mothers, sisters and loved ones to take cold so easily causing pains in the back and limbs rheumatism, pleurisy chills and fever etc, sometimes resulting in death Ladies rescue yourselves from this thraldom and purchase a Complete Washer the Premium Washer of our land, which economizes time and does away with this excessive labor for you know that for one to handle by hand large articles such as quilts etc, that it is exceedingly difficult by the old mode. We advise and entreat everybody therefore to have one of these Machines They are within the reach of every family

Best of Wringers and Clothes lines always on hand

Of the great number who have this Machine in Oregon and on the Pacific slope, not one would part with it Hundreds and thousands of such testimonials could be gotten

A portion of the westside road just north of the steamship and railroad office, has been ballasted

The Willamette Chief is drawn up at the foot of Washington street, bow out, for repairs to her wheel

"I scream for twenty five cents," is the straightforward avowal of a vender of a cooling article

Throw your bunting to the breeze to day. Formal opening of the Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia

Some of the ball players have been practicing for two or three nights past on the Academy grounds

The Albina ferryboat now lands just north of Burrard's wharf, where the O & C R R ferry formerly landed

During the time the circuit court room is undergoing repairs, Judge Shattuck will hold court in the county court room

Base ball is starting and pretty well under way at Sauvie's Island There is a good strong club organized in that vicinity

Some one broke into the saloon of Walter Moffett Sunday night, and made way with about 300 cigars and a quantity of tobacco

This is not a good year for rats. If any one will wander along some of the wharves he will be able to see a score or more of defunct rodents lying about, calmly awaiting the interesting process of decomposition, while his nasal organ will be tickled with the rich aroma (?) with which the air is burdened.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR EXHIBIT

WASHINGTON D C April 21, 1876

Dear Sir —It is deemed important that the history and results of the efforts that have been made to educate and civilize the Indians in the United States should be presented at the Centennial Exhibition The time left for preparation is short but it is believed that by prompt effort and the co operation of all interested a valuable representation may still be assured I therefore address you hoping that the plan may receive your favor and assistance. It is necessary to a proper treatment of the subject by this Department that it should be placed in possession as soon as practicable by each missionary and benevolent association that has contributed its efforts through missionaries teachers, materials etc towards the education and civilization of the Indians of its annual reports proceedings, reports of missionaries teachers and others among the Indians statistical returns and other documents also a copy or where that cannot be obtained, a description of each book that has been translated into any Indian language or dialect each dictionary each grammar and other text books prepared for Indian pupils in their own language and a list of books in English that are used in the Indian schools

Reports of early missionary effort and the latest reports especially such as may not have been published will be of great service

It is desirable that statistical details should be classified somewhat as follows

1 Situation of the church and school

2 Kind of school day, boarding or manual labor school

3 Number of church members

4 Number of months school is kept each year

5 Average attendance each year since the school was organized

6 Number of Indians reached by the missionary and teacher

7 Number of Indians that have adopted civilized habits (a) as to costume (b) as to living in houses, (c) as to cultivating the soil (d) as to keeping flocks and herds

8 Number of teachers since the beginning

9 Number of years each served

10 Number of missionaries since the beginning

11 Number of years each served

12 Present number of missionaries

13 Present number of teachers

14 Number of missionaries and teachers that understand the Indian language,

15 Number of pupils taught in their vernacular

16 Amount expended by society each year on the missions (a) for services (b) for building (c) for books, etc, (d) for clothing and other material for Indians

17 Amount of aid received from the general government each year including transportation furnished as a separate item (other items classified as before

Other details of interest may be suggested by your experience and would be gladly received

Photographic and other views of churches schoolhouses maps of grounds etc would form an appropriate and interesting feature of the exhibition and would be very welcome

All printed documents and manuscripts may be sent by express at the expense of this department and in case where they can only be loaned, will be returned free of expense as soon as practicable.

Hoping to receive your early and favorable consideration of the above requests, and your co-operation in the proposed work

I am very respectfully, your obedient servant

JOHN EATON

Commissioner of Education Representative of the Interior Department.

NATIONAL TEMPERANCE FAIR.

Mrs F F Victor is in receipt of the following circular which will require no explanation

The Womens National Christian Temperance Union will hold a National Temperance Fair in Philadelphia, opening June the 13th the day after the International convention in Horticultural Hall a central and commodious building

The Fair will continue for two weeks and will be conducted on the strictest religious principles Raffling chances grab bags and everything else that is objectionable will absolutely be prohibited and prevented

A daily temperance prayer meeting will be held during the time in a neighboring hall led by the distinguished workers of the Union at home and from foreign lands

The Philadelphia Union will have charge of the restaurant and conduct it upon the European plan

The fair will be under the management of the Womans National Christian Temperance Union but the States are invited to co operate and take charge of their own goods and are to have half of the net proceeds of the same Many of the States need money and this will enable them to call on the friends of temperance in their several States to contribute and their profits will be in proportion to their zeal and the liberality of their people

If public calls are made in the towns and villages of each State a large amount of goods can be gathered together in a very short time There are in almost every family fancy articles that have been bought at fairs or have been made during leisure hours, which have never been used that our women would gladly lay on this Temperance Altar to help on the dear cause

If the women of Germany at a time of peril from a powerful foe had the courage to give their costliest jewels into the public treasury, will not the women of America in this centennial year sacrifice some of their treasure to free their sons and husbands and brothers, and their country from a more fearful foe

The supplies of all kinds gathered up by each State, must be sent on to the Womens Temperance Union, 1020 Arch street, Philadelphia they will be put in charge of a judicious business committee of ladies, appointed by each State who will dispose of them at the fair in the interest of the State

If the women of each State will act promptly and vigorously, there can be no doubt of the largest success in this enterprise

Tens of thousands of persons who are deeply interested in temperance will visit Philadelphia during those two weeks, many of them men and women of wealth who will be glad to show their appreciation of this noble cause and will give freely

Let there be earnest work for the next two months

ANNIE WITTENMYER.

There is little new to report in the financial [illegible]. Available funds are in ample supply to meet the requirements of legitimate trade and borrowers are not at all numerous. Occasionally insights into the results of [illegible] operations indicate that notwithstanding the much complained of dullness which has prevailed during the past year [illegible] mercantile establishments have done a fair business [illegible] profitable one.

The comparatively few applications that are made for loans on first class securities or discounts of prime commercial paper are readily met and arranged on about the same terms that have ruled in the market for three months past. There is some call from the wool trade and the fish[eries], but in the aggregate the demand is generally lighter than usual at this season.

The Treaty with Hawaii.

The ratification of the treaty of reciprocity with the Hawaiian Kingdom if it does or does not affect our commercial interests with those Islands favorably, [illegible] quiet some suspense that has been a source of vexation to merchants for some time past and to that extent at least, its ratification will be hailed with satisfaction. There have probably been more extended results predicted from the confirmation of this treaty than will occur. At least the general opinion here is that aside from the release of a large quantity of sugar held in bond to await the action of Congress which has now been taken and a general depreciation in prices from its being thrown on the market, it will not materially affect trade interests on this coast.

By the text of the treaty the United States of America hereby agree to admit all the articles [illegible] in the [illegible] schedule the same being the growth, manufacture or produce of the Hawaiian Islands, into all parts of the United States free of duty—Rawhide castor oil paints nuts, vegetables, dried and undried preserved and unpreserved hides and skins undressed rice sandal, [illegible] plank shrubbery trees brown and all other unrefined sugar meaning thereby the grades of sugar from the Hawaiian Islands and known in the markets of San Francisco and Portland as Sandwich Island sugars sirups of sugar cane melado and molasses tallow.

All the articles named in the following schedule the same being the growth manufacture or produce of the United States of America are to be admitted into all the ports of the Hawaiian Islands free: agricultural implements animals beef bacon pork ham and all fresh smoked or preserved meats boots and shoes grain flour meal bran and breadstuffs of all kinds bricks stone and cement butter, cheese lard tallow bullion coal naval stores, including tar pitch rosin turpentine raw and rectified, copper and composition sheathing nails and bolts cotton and manufactures of cotton bleached and unbleached and whether or not colored stained painted or printed eggs fish and oysters and all other creatures living in the water fruits nuts and vegetables, green dried or undried, preserved or unpreserved hardware hides furs skins and pelts, dressed or undressed hoop iron nails and bolts tacks [illegible] springs ice iron and steel and manufactures thereof lumber and timber of all kinds round hewed sawed and manufactured in whole or in part machinery of all kinds engines and parts thereof oats, hay, paper stationery and books, and all manufactures of paper or of paper and wood petroleum and all oils for lubricating and illuminating purposes plants, shrubs trees and [illegible] rice sugar refined and unrefined salt soap wool and manufactures of wool other than ready made clothing wagons, carts for the purpose [of] agriculture and drayage wood and manufactures of wood and metal, except furniture either upholstered or carved and carriages textile manufactures made of a combination of wool cotton silk or linen. Article three provides that evidence that articles proposed to be admitted into the ports of the United States of America, or the ports of the Hawaiian Islands free of duty under the first and second articles of the convention are the growth or manufacture, or produce of the United States of America or of the Hawaiian Islands respectively shall be established in such rules and regulations and conditions for the protection of the revenue as the two governments may, from time to time respectively prescribe. The fourth article provides that neither country shall levy export duty on articles [illegible] to be admitted into the other under the first and second articles. Article five proposes that the treaty shall go into operation when properly proclaimed by both governments and remain in force for seven years from the date at which it may go into operation, and further until the expiration of twelve months after either of the high contracting parties shall give notice to the other of his wish to terminate the same each of the high contracting parties being at liberty to give such notice to the other at the end of said term of seven years or at any time before or thereafter.

Articles 1 and 6 are formal the latter providing that the treaty which was signed on the 30th of January 1875 should be ratified within 18 months.

From what we can learn the impelling cause for a favorable determination was the probability that if the United States did not confirm it, the opportunity would be offered to Great Britain, in which case the commerce of the Pacific coast, in the event of a war with England would be at the mercy of that power. Gen. Schofield of the army, and Admiral Porter of the navy were reported to have held this view. They held that with a line drawn from British Columbia to Australia and the Hawaiian Islands in its possession, England would have almost absolute control of the Pacific coast whereas if they were held by us, either through treaty or otherwise, such a result could not be possible because they could not then be used as a coaling station for heavy British ships of war. This consideration appears to have had much weight in settling the question as by the treaty the Hawaiian government binds itself not to cede or lease any bay or harbor, or any portion of its territory to a foreign power, other than the United States. Some regard the confirmation of the treaty as a sort of prelude to the permanent tenure of the Islands by the United States. However this may be, it is gratifying to know that the question is at least settled and business men will know just how to base their transactions with those Islands and in the removal of the uncertainties which have so long hung over the question of its settlement will be a measure of much commercial advantage.

Grain Fleet of 1876.

In the Alta of May 2d, we find a list of vessels on the way to San Francisco and loading for that port and which embrace the principal part of the grain fleet for the new crop. The aggregate tonnage in the list is 239 428 tons as follows: From New York 10 vessels, or 20,223 tons on the way, and 13 vessels of 19 168 tons loading. From Philadelphia, 4 vessels on the way and loading, tonnage 3,606. From Baltimore 4, or 7,814 tons. From Boston 7 or 6,603 tons. From Liverpool 20 vessels, or 25,775 tons on the way and 23 of 29,407 tons on the berth. From Australia 31 vessels or 43,727 tons. From Hong Kong 12 vessels or 11,316 tons and from Manila 8 vessels or 7 672 tons. This is a very fair showing as compared with the supply of tonnage in sight at corresponding periods in former years and indicates that the trade from this coast has lost none of its attractiveness for ship owners.

Wheat, Wool and Salmon.

These are entitled to rank as the three leading staples of this country for export and the capacity of Oregon and the adjoining Territories to supply a greatly enlarged demand for these products is unquestioned. Whatever therefore, affects the prices of them in the markets of the world is of interest to our readers. The fact that the market for wheat is seriously depressed is one which might seem likely to discourage extended production but advices that reach us from all parts of the State indicate that the farmers are pushing their work with all possible vigor in order to get in as full crops as possible and though the outlook is not very favorable for high prices many farmers work on the not uncommon idea that if their products are low they must have the more to sell. At this time the outlook for a full yield per acre is very good but this result will depend some on the weather during the rest of May and June. We are not, however, convinced as seem to be some of our exchanges that the area sown is as great as last year though there is no way to obtain correct figures on this point. Our present quotations for the cereal are entirely nominal as buyers are not anxious to purchase even at the reduced rates while sellers are very scarce holders refusing as yet to make the concession required.

The past few days of good weather has turned the attention of trade a little more directly to the wool market and the shearing season will soon be fairly inaugurated. Advices from San Francisco and the East continue to note a depression in the market and though some little better feeling seemed to be springing up a week or ten days ago it is hardly sustained by the latest news. There are as yet but few buyers in the market here and they are doing very little. Quotations will this year vary as they did last very materially and the staple well cleaned assorted and neatly packed will rank very far above pr[illegible] fleeces carelessly thrown together and mixed with grease dirt or other filth. It is time the wool growers of Oregon were fully stirred up to the work of securing a better reputation for their product. It can be accomplished more easily now than hereafter. The clip this season is said to promise very well and in quality and quantity will be quite up to [illegible] average.

When the salmon season first opened and for two or three weeks after the run of fish was so light that a good many parties in the business were quite disheartened and although prices were a little better than last year it appeared likely that there might be some failures to fulfill contracts, and that serious losses might result; but within the past few days it is reported that the indications for a full season's work are rapidly improving and the canneries are now most of them running to their full capacity and the Centennial year is expected to show a larger balance than usual in favor of our State in this business.

There is little new to report since the [illegible] financial [illegible] As a rule funds are in ample supply to meet the requirements of the trade and borrowers are not at a loss [illegible] as usually in [illegible] into the results of lending operations [illegible] standing [illegible] complained of [illegible] it has prevailed during the past year [illegible] have done a fair business [illegible] tightness.

The comparatively few applications that are made for loans on first class securities or discounts of prime commercial paper are readily met and arranged on about the same terms that have ruled in the market for three months past. There is some call from the wool trade and the fisheries but in the aggregate the demand is generally lighter than usual at this season

The Treaty with Hawaii.

The ratification of the treaty of reciprocity with the Hawaiian Kingdom if it does or does not affect our commercial interests with those islands favorably will quiet some suspense that has been a source of vexation to merchants for some time past and to that extent at least its ratification will be hailed with satisfaction. There have probably been more extended results predicted from the confirmation of this treaty than will occur. At least the general opinion here is that aside from the release of a large quantity of sugar held in bond to await the action of Congress which has now been taken and a general depreciation in prices from its being thrown on the market, it will not materially affect trade interests on this coast.

By the text of the treaty the United States of America hereby agree to admit all the articles named in the following schedule the same being the growth manufacture or produce of the Hawaiian Islands into all parts of the United States free of duty—Rawhide castor oil paints nuts, vegetables dried and undried preserved and unpreserved hides and skins undressed rice sandal woods plank shrubbery trees brown and all other unrefined sugars meaning thereby the grades of sugar from the Hawaiian Islands and known in the markets of San Francisco and Portland as Sandwich Island sugars sirups of sugar cane melado and molasses tallow.

All the articles named in the following schedule the same being the growth manufacture or produce of the United States of America are to be admitted into all the ports of the Hawaiian Islands free agricultural implements animals beef bacon pork ham and all fresh smoked or preserved meats boots and shoes grain flour meal bran and breadstuffs of all kinds bricks stone and cement butter, cheese lard tallow bullion coal naval stores, including tar pitch rosin turpentine raw and rectified copper and composition sheathing nails and bolts cotton and manufactures of cotton bleached and unbleached and whether or not colored stained painted or printed eggs fish and oysters and all other creatures living in the water fruits, nuts and vegetables green dried or undried, preserved or unpreserved hardware hides furs, skins and pelts dressed or undressed hoop iron nails and bolts tacks bed springs ice iron and steel and manufactures thereof lumber and timber of all kinds round, hewed sawed and manufactured in whole or in part machinery of all kinds engines and parts thereof oats, hay paper stationery and books, and all manufactures of paper or of paper and wood petroleum and all oils for lubricating and illuminating purposes plants shrubs trees and seeds rice, sugar refined and unrefined salt soap wool and manufactures of wool other than ready made clothing wagons, carts for the purpose of agriculture and drayage wood and manufactures of wood and metal, except furniture either upholstered or carved and carriages textile manufactures made of a combination of wool cotton silk or linen. Article three provides that evidence that articles proposed to be admitted into the ports of the United States of America or the ports of the Hawaiian Islands, free of duty under the first and second articles of the convention are the growth or manufacture, or produce of the United States of America or of the Hawaiian Islands respectively shall be established in such rules and regulations and conditions for the protection of the revenue as the two governments may from time to time respectively prescribe. The fourth article provides that neither country shall levy export duty on articles proposed to be admitted into the other under the first and second articles. Article five proposes that the treaty shall go into operation when properly proclaimed by both governments and remain in force for seven years from the date at which it may go into operation, and further until the expiration of twelve months after either of the high contracting parties shall give notice to the other of his wish to terminate the same each of the high contracting parties being at liberty to give such notice to the other at the end of said term of seven years or at any time before or thereafter.

Articles 1 and 6 are formal the latter providing that the treaty, which was signed on the 30th of January 1875, should be ratified within 18 months.

From what we can learn the impelling cause for a favorable consideration was the probability that, if the United States did not confirm it the opportunity would be offered to Great Britain, in which case the commerce of the Pacific coast in the event of a war with England would be at the mercy of that power. Gen. Schofield of the army, and Admiral Porter of the navy were reported to have held this view. They held that with a line drawn from British Columbia to Australia and the Hawaiian Islands in its possession, England would have almost absolute control of the Pacific coast, whereas if they were held by us, either through treaty or otherwise, such a result could not be possible because they could not then be used as a coaling station for heavy British ships of war. This consideration appears to have had much weight in settling the question, as by the treaty the Hawaiian government binds itself not to cede or lease any bay or harbor, or any portion of its territory, to a foreign power, other than the United States. Some regard the confirmation of the treaty as a sort of prelude to the permanent tenure of the Islands by the United States. However this may be, it is gratifying to know that the question is at least settled and business men will know just how to base their transactions with those Islands and in the removal of the uncertainties which have so long hung over the question of its settlement will be a measure of much commercial advantage.

Grain Fleet of 1876.

In the Alta of May 2d, we find a list of vessels on the way to San Francisco and loading for that port and which embrace the principal part of the grain fleet for the new crop. The aggregate tonnage in the list is 230 423 tons as follows: From New York 10 vessels or 30,222 tons on the way, and 13 vessels or 19 168 tons loading. From Philadelphia, 4 vessels on the way and loading tonnage 3 626. From Baltimore 4, or 7,814 tons. From Boston 7 or 8,603 tons. From Liverpool 20 vessels, or 25,775 tons on the way and 23 or 29,407 tons on the berth. From Australia 31 vessels or 47,727 tons. From Hongkong 12 vessels or 11,315 tons and from Manila 8 vessels or 7 072 tons. This is a very fair showing as compared with the supply of tonnage in sight at corresponding periods in former years and indicates that the trade from this coast has lost none of its attractiveness for ship owners.

Wheat, Wool and Salmon

These are entitled to rank as the three leading staples of this country for export and the capacity of Oregon and the adjoining Territories to supply an early enlarged demand for these products is unquestioned. Whatever therefore, affects the prices of them in the markets of the world is of interest to our readers. The fact that the market for wheat is so [illegible] depressed is one which might seem likely to discourage extended production but advices which reach us from all parts of the state indicate that the farmers are pushing their work with all possible vigor in order to secure as full crops as possible and though the outlook is not very favorable for high prices many farmers work on the not unwise idea that if their products are low they must have the more to sell. At this time the outlook for a full yield per acre is very good but this result will depend some on the weather during the remainder of May and June. We are not yet convinced as seem to be some of our exchanges that the area sown is as great as last year though there is no way to obtain correct figures on this point. Our present quotations for the cereal are entirely nominal as buyers are not anxious to purchase even at the reduced rates while sellers are very scarce holders refusing as yet to make the concession required.

The past few days of good weather has turned the attention of trade a little more directly to the wool market and the shearing season will soon be fairly inaugurated. Advices from San Francisco and the East continue to note a depression in the market, and though some little better feeling seemed to be springing up a week or ten days ago it is hardly sustained by the latest news. There are as yet but few buyers in the market here and these are doing very little. Quotations will this year vary as they did last very materially and the staple well cleaned, assorted and neatly packed will rank very far above promiscuous fleeces carelessly thrown together and mixed with grease dirt or other filth. It is time the wool growers of Oregon were fully stirred up to the work of securing a better reputation for their product. It can be accomplished more easily now than hereafter. The clip this season is said to promise very well and in quality and quantity will be quite up to [illegible] not beyond last average.

When the salmon season first opened and for two or three weeks after the run of fish was so light that a good many parties in the business were quite disheartened and though prices were a little better than last year it appeared likely that there might be some failures to fulfill contracts, and that serious losses might result; but within the past few days it is reported that the indications for a full season's work are rapidly improving and the canneries are now most of them running to their full capacity and the Centennial year is expected to show a larger balance than usual in favor of [illegible] state in this business.
